

Thank you for attending our Trading Addicts Open House!

We've put together this User Guide for new attendees that will be joining us this evening. Please browse through this document to help become more familiar with our webinar service provider and its functionality. The instructions in this guide should help to eliminate potential difficulties, and help you get the most out of our presentation.

Joining the Webinar

Prior to this meeting, you should have received a link that points to our presentation. To join the meeting, simply click on the link and when prompted, enter the password that was given. Once you have logged in, you will be able to see our presentation through your computer screen, and hear our voices through your computer speakers.

Audio Options

During this webinar, you will have the option of listening to the presentation over the phone, or through your computer. By default, our webinar is set to broadcast through your computer speakers, so make sure that your volume is turned up and your speakers are in working order.

If you would prefer to dial in via telephone, go to your participant panel and click the empty bubble that says "Use Telephone." By doing this, instructions will pop up giving you the dial-in phone number, the webinar access code (XXX-XXX-XXX), and an audio PIN number.

You need to dial each of these numbers on your telephone keypad in order to participate and/or hear via telephone.

You will be automatically muted by the host throughout the presentation, so do not worry about muting your telephone.

Audio Issues

Although we do not anticipate any audio difficulties during our presentation, on occasion we have had attendees report audio issues. This can happen for a number of reasons, but the most common is that if you are running too many applications on your machine during the broadcast, audio quality diminishes.

If you do encounter audio difficulties, this can typically be fixed by reconnecting your audio. To do this, toggle back and forth between “Use Mic & Speakers” and “Use Telephone” on the audio panel as seen in the image above. By doing this, you will establish a new audio connection, which will help remedy a poor audio connection.

Communicating with the Host

If you would like to communicate with the webinar host, on your participant panel find the “Questions” section. There you can type in a question or comment that will be sent directly to the host. Under most circumstances, questions will be answered during Q&A, which will be immediately following the presentation.
